

Jackson, Hap Felsch and Jack Four-nier having their troubles. The pitching staff of the South Siders is a good corps as constituted last season, and to break through and land a job even on the reserve list is a tough assignment for any newcomer.

Those who land, if any do, will be pitchers of no mean ability.

All developments point to Byrd Lynn as the first aid to Ray Schalk in catching. Lynn is a rattling good youngster, speedy, a strong thrower and a fine batter. He suffered from lack of opportunity last season and showed want of practice during the infrequent trials he was given.

Jack Lapp was usually sent in when Schalk was out. Lapp was a veteran, going backward, but what Rowland wanted was balance and generalship. This was bad for Lynn. Now, with Lapp gone to the minors, he will get more opportunity and should be a star within a short time.

The first team whipped the seconds in an exhibition game, 6 to 3. Ris-berg, Ed Collins and Weaver poled two hits each.

Jack Ness, disposed of by the White Sox to Joe Tinker's Columbus club, has declined the trip and will play ball this summer with the Magnets of the Chicago baseball league, a new organization of several strong club in the city. Jack figures he can make more money working during the week and playing semi-pro ball Sundays.

Phil Harrison and Joe Dory; middleweights, will mix tonight in the Racine arena as the main attraction of a show that should provide some entertainment. Matty McCue and Red Dolan will swap punches for ten rounds, and two other bouts will open the ball. Dory and Harrison are good and willing fighters, not champions, but fellows what have to fight to keep what reputations they have.

H. Edwards and J. West of Buffalo rolled into first place in the A. B. C. bowling tourney at Grand Rapids with a doubles count of 1,219, replacing Smorowski and Lundgren of Chicago.

Commodore Barry defeated O'Connell Council, 9 to 7, in a championship game of the Knights of Columbus Indoor league finals. Barry scored three times in the final inning.

Harmon-Cooper All-Stars defeated the Indianapolis roller hockey team at Riverview, 5 to 0. Whiting and Eglington played a brilliant game for the All-Stars.

Art Staff, Northwest Skating club, won the invitation mile ice race at White City in 2:53 4-6. Fisher of Milwaukee was second and McWhirter third.

John Olin, Finnish wrestling star, will go to the mat with Doc Roller at the Coliseum tonight. Charley Cutler and Mort Henderson will appear in the semi-final match, and Mike Yokel and Walter Willoughby will furnish the opening event.

Joe Stecher defeated Henry Orde-man in straight falls at Vernon, Cal.

The greatest amount of temperament ever collected in a ball club—that the New York Giants.

Temperament can mean two things to a ball club—a great winning machine or an erratic combination.

What will it mean to the Giants?

The New York Giants look like the best ball club of the type since the old Cubs—it is the same type of ball club and the answer, which will be read along in the summer, will tell the story.

If the New York Giants can keep the same spirit they have now in training camp they are unbeatable. If they become indifferent, a much poorer club can beat them.

But the present spirit of the Giants in itself is unbeatable.

The men individually believe they are going to play in a world series.

After talking to a few of them you can't help catching this enthusiasm—it is contagious; it is the enthusiasm that is death to opposition.
